CAMBRIDGE WINS ALL THE WAY

SIX LENGTHS AHEAD OF OXFORD IN ANNUAL BOAT RACE.

Good Caramanship by Both Crews and Superior Stamina by the Light Blues —Water Smooth, but a Cold Rain Pre-valls—Time, 19 Minutes 35 Seconds.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, April 1.—The annual university to trace from Putney to Mortlake was owed to-day and was won by Cambridge. Cambridge won by about six lengths.

The crews started promptly at 3:30 o'clock in a steady, cold rain. Cambridge rowed thirty-eight strokes and Oxford thirty-six, n the first minute. Cambridge shot ahead pmediately, and was leading distinctly at Craven Steps, and this lead was extended, opposite the Crab Tree, to between three quarters of a length and a length. Cambridge held on firmly, rowing with great strength and steadiness. The Light Blues were two lengths in front at Hammersmith Bridge, when half the distance had been covered, and were still increasing their lead, but Oxford was hanging on steadily. Both crews were rowing thirty-six strokes to he minute. At Thorneycroft's Cambridge was for lengths in front and was evidently confident winning. The Oxford crew, however, put forth most determined efforts and re-duced this lead nearly a length before they reached Devonshire Meadows, but the Can tabs were three and a half lengths ahead at Barnes Bridge.

The race from this point on was a certainty for Cambridge and showed the su-perior stamina of that crew. Both crews showed good oarsmanship. Except for the rain, it was a race rowed in good boating conditions, which favored neither crew. The water was practically smooth.

From the start it was apparent that barring accidents the Light Blues had the race in their hands. Nelson of Cambridge set his men a sharper stroke than Monier-Williams of Oxford, and kept it up with great power. It was a struggle of an attractive style against style and strength

The Oxford crew made their effort before the Crabtree and managed to bring the lead under three-quarters of a length, but, as under three-quarters of a length, but, as they tried to creep up, Nelson responded and virtually decided the contest.

The Light Blues soon established a lead of two lengths and never allowed their opponents to come nearer. Toward the end they drew clear away.

The official time was 19 minutes and

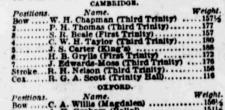

The official time was 19 minutes and 35 seconds.

Oxford won the toss for position and chose the Surrey shore. This made little difference, however, as only a slight southwest wind was prevailing.

A steady rain to-day gave the crews smoother water for their annual race than had been experienced during the recent trials. The conditions otherwise were uncomfortable for the spectators, who did not assemble along the course in scores of thousands as when the race was rowed on Saturday, which had almost invariably been the case hitherto. The tides this year made to-day the most suitable one for the race.

The Cambridge men, who are twenty-one pounds heavier than the Oxonians, were the favorites in public estimation on their strength rather than style. The betting this morning was 7 to 2 on the Light Blue.

The crews in yesterday's race were made CAMBRIDGE.

is a son of John D. Milburn, the Buffalo lawyer. His brother, J. D. Milburn, Jr., also rowed in Oxford's boat last year.

This year's race was the sixtieth between the two universities. Cambridge last year had been the winner twenty-five times, and in 1901 Oxford won her thirty-third victory.
The race in 1877 resulted in a tie.

The Oxford-Cambridge boat race has been an annual fixture since 1856. The two universities first met on the water in 1829, when a race was rowed at Henley over a two-and-a-quarter-mile course, from Hamilton to Henley Bridge. Oxford was the winner. The second race was held seven years later, over the course from Westminster to Putney, Cambridge winning.
The next three races, rowed in 1839, 1840 and 1841, were all won by Cambridge, Oxford gaining her second victory in 1842.

The course selected in 1845 was from Putney to Mortlake. This course measures approximately 4½ miles, and since 1864 has invariably been used for the university contests. The record for the course is 18 minutes and 47 seconds, made by Oxford in 1893 and tied in 1900 by Cambridge.

High class horseflesh was much in evidence at Speedway Park yesterday, and the racing would have done credit to a Sunday morning or a holiday gathering. The first to finish behind the hand-some matines winner was E. E. Smathers's some matinee winner was E. E. Smathers's Ida Highwood, 2:09%, driven by George spear. AFTER THE BATTLE. How Corbett's Victory Struck the Local

Discussion of the championship contest between Young Corbett and Terry McGovern at San Francisco on Tuesday night was lively in New York yesterday. That Corbett's victory was a popular one was demonstrated in various quarters. There were few who were not free to admit that Corbett is McGovern's superior at every stage. McGovern's claim that he was not counted out and that he could have continued in the mill was not taken seriously. Even some of Terry's friends laughed at the idea and were surprised that he should make such a contention.

Many of McGovern's supporters were to be found along the Bowery. The Sullivanites almost to a man had backed Terry. In spite of the reverse, McGovern's friends are legion and still believe that he can whip the Denver boy. There was considerable mourning in South Brooklyn, where Terry lives and was born. All of his followers, including members of the Terry McGovern Association, had a bet on him. The membership is over 300, and about $2,000, it is said, was dropped by the organization.

14 and the association made preparations, in an ticipation of a victory, to tender him a banquet. The club says that the affair has not been abandoned and if Terry arrives on time the banquet will be held. It is said not been abandoned and if Terry arrives on time the banquet will be held. It is said that Mrs. McGovern, Terry's wife, takes the defeat of her husband much to heart.

Yesterday a number of sports argued that Corbett could have made a better showing in his fights with Austin Rice. Billy Maynard and Eddle Hanlon. A good many think that he was "stalling" all the time and deliberately made a poor showing so as to have McGovern enter the ring with the odds in the latter's favor.

Probably the largest winners in town on the fight are the Considine brothers. They are credited with being over $7,000 to the good. All day vesterday George Considine was busy collecting wasers he had made. Another big winner is Chris Dalton of Brooklyn. He was for Young Corbett from the start. Dick Bernard dropped over $5,000 on McGovern's downfall.

Bernard now says he will back Corbett against all comers in the future. Max Hirsh, the bookmaker; Charley White, not the referee: Barney Aaron, Sam Fitzpatrick. Charley Mahoney, Eddie Bull, Billy Newman, George Bothner and Joe Farrell are a few of those who picked Young Corbett to win and, who are several hundred dollars better off as a result.

Last night George Considine received the following despatch from Corbett in answer to a congratulatory one he sent:

Much thanks. Won easily and proved that I am his master. Will be in New York in two weeks ready to meet all comers.

Conditine said that Young Corbett would give a reception to his friends. Considine thought McGovern's claim that he was not knocked out would do him more harm than good. "He is a sore loser," continued Considine, "and does not care to admit that the kid can beat him."

CORBETT THE BETTER FIGHTER. Only a Few Immediate McGovernites Think Differently.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.- The cleverest thing that Young Corbett did last night in the ring was to go over to Mc. overn's cor-ner after Terry had staggered to his chair and say to Sam Harris, after asking Mc:lovern a question, to which the Brooklyn boy paid Despite Terry's claim that Timekeeper

Harting counted only nine and that he arose before the ten count had been counted, several trained observers at the ringside say a full count was given. Jim Neil, a horseman with a split second watch, says Terry did not rise until the fourteenth second. Joe Humphries, timekeeper for Mclovern, said:

"At the time Harting was appointed I agreed to count with him in case a man was knocked down. We counted together last night, and when we arrived at eight seconds
Terry was ap and ready to resume battle.
To my surprise, however, Eddie Graney To waved us aside and declared Corbett the victor. Now, I have nothing to say against Graney, for he is a good, honest boy, but I never will stop expressing my opinion regarding Harting. He is not on the level, and he showed it by his action last night.

George Harting, who has served as time-keeper for many fights here, said to-day:
The timing last night was square as a die. As soon as McGovern dropped I commenced to count, and he was still down until twelve had been called. Then he got up but was so badly dazed that he could not make any reply to men who sat beside me and questioned him. His eyes had a vacant stare, and he sat in his chair and was still out of his mind when the gong sounded for the conclusion of the round, twenty seconds later. night, and when we arrived at eight seconds and he sat in his chair and he sounded for the conclusion of the round, twenty seconds later."

Even had McGovern risen before the count of ten he would have been knocked out by Corbett for there were still twenty seconds to go, and Corbett was standing by ready with another right hand punch. All the sports who saw the fight, except a few immediate followers of McGovern, admit to-day that Terry was fairly beaten and that this defeat was due to Corbett's superior cleverness and coolness.

The vicious nature of the fight was only revealed to-day when the conversation between the two fighters while the mill was on, was made known by Corbett and Referee Franey. Corbett throughout preserved a contemptuous attitude toward Terry, and when the Brooklyn man was roughing it in infighting. Corbett constantly accused him of foul fighting, but told him he could not win even with those tactics. It required all the persuasiveness of Sam Harris to keep Terry from losing his head under these taunts. In the dressing room after the fight there was a resumption of hostilities, Terry declaring that he had been robbed. This angered Corbett and he shouted: "You get out of here. I hate you and I don't want to see anything more of you."

McGovern to-day claims the feather weight.

You. Motiovern to-day claims the featherweight Championship at 122 pounds. He declares last night's fight was at special weight and therefore ought not to carry the championship. therefore ought not to carry the champonship.

I lost the fight, but was not counted out," he said. "I was ready to get up when the timekeeper shouted 'Nine, you're out! There is no use, however, complaining now. All I will say is I am yet the world's 122-pound champion and am ready to fight Corbett at that weight. I am willing to take him on in a week if he will give me a battle. He is a good man and his punches hurt me, but I still think I can beat him."

The receipts amounted to $20.852, of which the club received $8.340. Corbett's share of the remainder is $7.506, while McGovern gets $5,000.

YOSEMITE CLUB GETS FIGHT.

Receipts for Jeffries and Corbett.

San Francisco, April 1.—Bids for the Corbett-Jeffries fight for the heavyweight championship were opened this afternoon at Harry Corbett's place in this city. Billy Delaney represented the champion and Harry Corbett looked out for his brother Jim.

Only two bids were submitted, one from the San Francisco A. C.) offering 67½ per cent. of the gross receipts, and the other from the Yosemite Club of this city, which submitted two propositions. One was to give the fighters 70 per cent. of the gross receipts or a purse of $20,000. The Yosmereceipts or a purse of $20,000. The Yosmereceipts of a purse of $20,000. The Yosmereceipts of the deide which of the club's two proposals they will accept.

JOCKEY MILES SUSPENDED

STEWARDS TAKE ACTION FOR POOR RIDE ON CARROLL D.

Case Also Referred to the Jockey Club—Sildell, Judge, Examiner, Bendure, Turnpike and Atheiroy Win at Bennings—Three Favorites Successful.

Washington, April 1.—Jockey Miles, one of "Father Bill" Daly's boys, is in trouble. The stewards at Bennings to-day decided to suspend him for the remainder of the meeting, and will refer his case to the Jockey Club. This ruling was prompted by Miles's ride on Carroll D. yesterday and is the first ride on Carroll D. yesterday and is case of soundal on the Eastern turf this year. After yesterday's race Miles was called before the stewards and asked to explain what appeared to be an indifferent ride on the heavily backed favorite. His explanation was not satisfactory, and after the layers' sheets had been examined, the stewards concluded that radical measures were in order.

The fine weather and a good card drew a large crowd to the track this afternoon. The track was still slow, but the betting was de-cidedly brisk. The Goughacres Stable's large crowd to the track this afternoon. The track was still slow, but the betting was decidedly brisk. The Goughacres Stable's Judge, by Atheling—Judy, was a pronounced favorite in the race for maiden two-year-olds at four and a half furlongs, going to the post at 2 to 5. He came fully up to expectations, as he assumed the lead when the field was straightened out for home, and in spite of much swerving, passed the judges two lengths before H. T. Griffin's Listaway, by Lissak—Filtaway, who was strongly played for the place.

Another sure-thing favorite was Dick Kane's Examiner in the third event, at six furlongs. The Inspector B. colt closed at 35 to 100, with the big plungers all aboard. Anna Daly was the pick for the place. But Examiner made his backers suffer from temporary heart disease, for Redfern had to drive him all the way to beat Flying Buttress by a length in 1:162-5.

The talent made Blue and Orange a 3 to 2 favorite in the first race, at six and a half furlongs, but Ben Howard, Slidell, Zirl and old Brisk were all liberally played. Zirl made the running until well into the stretch, where Gannon got up with Slidell, the latter winning in a sharp drive by alf a length, Zirl beating the favorite by a length.

In the fourth event, for maidens at seven furlongs, Adele Harding, with Redfern up, was a slight favorite over Cherubim, but both were disappointments. Gannon put up a clever ride on Benduro, third choice, and won in a hot finish by three parts of a length from Flo Russell, who was backed down to tens and finished a length before Cherubim. Bedlington, another good thing, played down to twelves, was lost.

Another favorite went wrong in the fifth race for platers at six furlongs when Right and True, carrying a bundle of money at 7 to 5, never was dangerous. Redfern was responsible for Turnpike's victory. He hustled the colt to the front soon after leaving the barrier and stayed there, Turnpike beating Sir Christopher by two lengths, with the latter a head before Lady Radnor.

AFRICANDER IN DEMAND.

The Gravesend racetrack was still heavy and sticky yesterday morning, which precluded any real fast work. The sun and cluded any real fast work. The sun and wind will dry it up to-day, however, and a real good track may be expected. It is said the syndicate that offered $20,000 for the three-year-old Africander, has increased the offer to $25,000, but Charley Dwyer still refuses to part with the colt. He is certainly the favorite among Gravesend trainers, all of whom declare that they have never seen a three-year-old with better prospects. The the favorite among Gravesend trainers, all of whom declare that they have never seen a three-year-old with better prospects. The work of the colt is glit-edged, so far as he has not been asked to do any phenomenal trials, as possibly he may not start before he fills his engagement in the Belmont at Morris Park.

Fred Burlew continues to push his string along with vigor. Rain or shine, heavy or dry track, it is all the same. The horses have to do their work. The young trainer argues that possibly they will meet such weather and tracks at Aqueduct and the Metropolitan tracks at Jamaica.

George Cornell's string is also forward. Miss Dorothy, Stamping Ground and Labor are going like great guns at Gravesend.

The arrival of the Fleischman string at Gravesend yesterday created quite a stir. Trainer Weish has forty-two horses, three and two-year-olds, in the Fleischman string, Among the lot are a number of highly bred colts and fillies imported from England and are the progency of celebrated sires and dama there. Horsemen, one after another, have pledged themselves not to race on the Newport track again if a chance is given them to be reinstated in the Western Jockey Club. During the past week many horsemen have visited Assistant Secretary Dillon of the Latonia Jockey Club in regard to their standing, and have been told that if they sign a pledge not to race any more at the Newport track the Western Jockey Club may take them back. It also has been said that President Perkins, one of the stewards of the Western Jockey Club, has given his promise to use his influence in having all the Newport outlaws reinstated on the above conditions.

Princeton Weight Inrower shatters Arm.

Princeton, April 1.—H. M. Bradley, who registered for the track team recently as a hammer thrower, fell to-day while practising, and so shattered his elbow that he will be unable to continue his work this spring. Bradley was prominent in football last fall, and it was expected that he would be a strong addition to this year's track team.

Washington Heights residents have drawn Washington Heights residents have drawn up a second petition protesting against 166th and 167th streets being cut through the New York American League ball grounds. The petition is backed up by three reasons: First, that there is no need for these streets such thoroughfares; second, that if laid out the streets would be impracticable because of steep grade; third, that the Greater New York Baseball Association having secured the property for a period of ten years 'it is our honest belief that the grounds will prove a big benefit to the people of the district, advertise the district and bring people to it, and increase business and property values in the district."

Tom Allen (P. F.) to Marry.

From the St. Louis Star.

Late in life Tom Allen, the retired champion purilist of England and America, is the character in a love romance.

Soon he will wed Mrs. Tillie Hartgrove, who for three years has been his housekeeper and nurse.

Allen is & years of age and so ill with pneumonia that his life hangs as if by a thread.

His housekeeper is only II, decidedly good-looking, and as devoted to the old man as if he were only a few years older than herself.

The young woman has a husband in Kanaas City named Martin Hartgrove, whom she is anxious to get rid of, because two weeks after her marriage to him, she alleges, he left her alone to shift for herself, and this, too, when she was but a child of 18.

She has a suit in the St. Louis courts which will be heard some time in April.

The husband has filed no answer to the allegations, hence it is probable that the decree will be granted by default.

So soon as she is liberated from her first matrimonial contract the young woman will become the wife of the former champion, she says.

Allen has been down in bed for nearly a year and Mrs. Hartgrove has been devoted in her attentions.

Tom Allen has been down in bed for over twenty years, and in that time has accumulated a sung fortune. He has but few relatives in this country, but last Christmas time, when he was supposed to be dying, men and women, elaiming kinship, and anxious to share the old man's fortune, pecked the barroom, drowding out the regular loungers.

It's deep in human nature-When one wants a thing one wants it quick. I No time to consult a tailor-Spring's here.

I Too important a time to wear ready-mades. Capital time to put "Semi-ready" to the hardest test. I Tried - on, finished - to - order and sent home same day, $18 and up.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April r.—Thirty-seven horses, composing the respective stables of H. M. Ziegier and Dr. J. Grant Lyman, were shipped from here to-day to New York for the metropolitan racing season. Twenty-eight were in charge of Trainer Charles Hughes; the Lyman string was in charge of Trainer Walter N. House. The most prominent of the horses were Monte Carlo, Tantalus Cup. Luke Ward, Omaha 2d, Nick Longworth. Water Tower and Miss Gould; the others being two-year-olds, a majority of which are Futurity candidates. The Zeigler horses go to Sheepshead Bay while the nine head of Lyman's string will stable at Packville.
